

Exhibit 29

The Next Web article - Startup Dream Team's bootcamp for young entrepreneurs heads to Europe

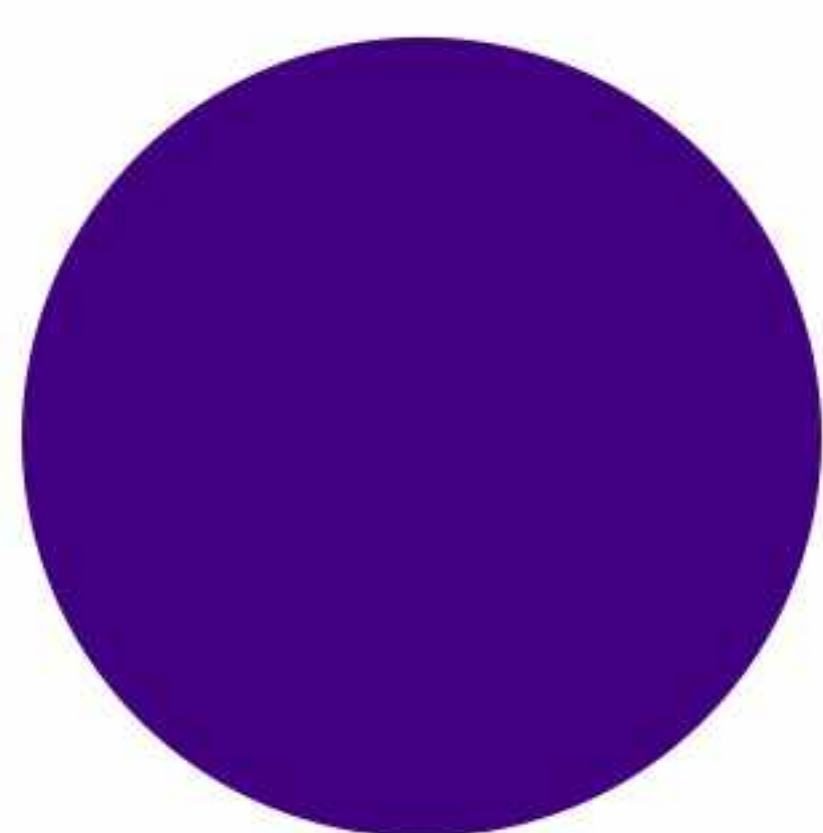

This article was published on March 5, 2014

EUROPE

Startup Dream Team's bootcamp for young entrepreneurs heads to Europe

March 5, 2014 - 12:37 pm

STORY BY
Paul Sawers

Way back in May last year, we brought you news on Startup Dream Team, a bootcamp from Paris-based student organization Silicon Students. It was seeking 45 budding entrepreneurs from around the world who were willing to join a nine-week summer program in Silicon Valley – that was its second edition, having initially launched back in 2012.

Today, Silicon Students has revealed that it's taking Startup Dream Team to Europe for the first time, as it lands in London, Paris and Berlin too. This means it will take place in four cities this summer.

Startup Dream Team is aimed at 18-to-25 year-olds from around the world, with selected participants living in the same house for two months as they intern with various startups during the day. They also work on projects in the evenings and weekends, which are pitched to investors at the end. Indeed, given that candidates apply as individuals as opposed to 'startups', this program is considered a 'pre-accelerator'.

If you're interested in applying, you can do so here up until March 30. The bootcamps will take place in Paris, London and Berlin from June 6 to August 10, and in San Francisco from June 20 to August 17.

TNW
Newsletter

The

The latest rumblings from the EU tech scene, a story from our wise ol' founder Boris, and some questionable AI art. It's free, every week, in your inbox. Sign up now!

Your email address

☐

I agree to TNW storing and processing my personal data to receive the requested newsletter(s). For more information check out TNW's Privacy Policy.*

SUBSCRIBE

➤ Startup Dream Team

Get the TNW newsletter

Get the most important tech news in your inbox each week.

SUBSCRIBE

☐ I agree to TNW storing and processing my personal data to receive the requested newsletter(s). For more information check out TNW's Privacy Policy.*